

JAMES POGUE, Ph.D

Unconscious Bias
Diversity & Inclusion
Multi-Generational Intelligence

TIMELY, COMPELLING, NECESSARY...

the RIGHT kind of uncomfortable.

An Unconscious Bias and Multi-Generational Expert James 'translates' words and actions of colleagues, team members, leader and executives into a common language we can all understand. His ability to weave together funny anecdotes and riveting tales will empower audiences to strengthen their own commitment to lead, drive change and question the status quo.

James attended Grambling State University and paid his way through college via his military service, a music scholarship and marching with the World Famed Marching Band...he was even a Drum Major! He went on to receive a Ph.D at 29 from the University of Arizona and completed Post-Doctoral training at Harvard University's Management Development Program. He has researched and presented on Organizational Behavior, Human Development, Psychosocial theory, Multi-Generational Intelligence, Unconscious Bias, Diversity and Inclusion for over 20 years.

James is a Military Veteran and a seasoned Martial Artist having competed across North America and winning 5 National Championships plus Silver and Bronze at the World Championships.

Why you need JAMES POGUE, Ph.D

Because diversity, inclusion and bias are keeping you up at night
Because talking about sensitive issues is a 'right now' imperative
Because the impact to the bottom line is clear and evident
Because he will leave you feeling the RIGHT kind of uncomfortable

Book James to speak at your event!
